

BANDITS IN THE CEBU MOUNTAINS

Gen. Otis Tells of Their Desperate Deeds.

ROB AND IMPRISON PEOPLE
ALONG COAST TOWNS.

Lieut. Moore With a Detachment of the Twenty-Third Infantry Fired
Upon From a Strongly Fortified
Position—Nine Hundred Volunteers
Re-Enlist For New Regiments—
Four Hundred Applications—California Regiment Returns—Others Will Soon Follow.

Washington, July 26.—[Special]—The following was received from Gen. Otis this morning:
"Bandits in the Cebu mountains are robbing and imprisoning people along the coast towns. Monday, Lieut. Moore, with a detachment of Twenty-Third Infantry was fired upon from a strongly fortified position in the mountains and one private was killed, whose name was not given. No other casualties are reported. The enemy's loss was five bandits killed and seven captured."

Troops Leave For San Francisco

Manila, July 26.—[Special]—The First California regiment, consisting of forty-eight officers and nine hundred and fifty men, two batteries of California heavy artillery of nine officers and eighty-six men and two hundred and seventy-five discharged soldiers of other regiments sailed for San Francisco today on the transport Sherman.

Otis also says that nine hundred volunteers have re-enlisted for the new regiment and that he has four hundred applications. He thinks he might be able to raise an additional regiment exclusively of volunteers.

He says the Minnesota regiment leaves on the transport Sheridan as soon as it can be unloaded and loaded.

Other volunteer organizations will leave as soon as transportation is available.

The typhoon has abated.

London, July 26.—A private letter received here from a war correspondent at Manila and dated June 17 says:

"There seems to be no end of the war in sight. The censorship is constantly becoming more troublesome. Gen. Otis recently established a rule that any matter relating to the navy must be taken to the commander of the fleet for his approval, and afterward submitted to the military censor, thus adding to our difficulties. For some reason which the censor would not explain, Gen. Otis refused to allow us to send the death of the Monardnock's captain (Nichols) for two days after its occurrence. The general also refused to let us send news of the disappearance of Capt. Rockefeller (April 28) on the ground that it would worry his family, or the killing of Capt. Tilly of the signal corps, until the next day.

CAPT. GREENE.

[Gen. Otis' Press Censor.]

"It is impossible to write the truth about the situation. The resources and fighting qualities of the natives are quite misunderstood by the American papers, and we cannot write the facts without being accused of treason; nor can we tell of the practically unanimous opposition to and dislike of the war among the American troops. The volunteers, or at least a portion of them, were at one time on the verge of mutiny, and unless Gen. Otis had begun sending them homeward there would have been sensational developments. We have been absolutely refused all hospital figures."

Washington, July 26.—Administration officials believe that the institution of a provisional government in the island of Negros will have a beneficial effect upon the inhabitants of Luzon by tending to bring hostilities on the island to a close. The voluntary action on the part of this government will go a long way toward convincing the inhabitants of the Philippine archipelago that the Americans do not propose to rule them with an iron hand, but intend to permit them to take a hand in the management of their own affairs, and will permit them to hold elections.

The government for the island of Negros will be under the supervision of Gen. Otis, although a military governor will be placed in command. There will also be a civil governor for Negros and an advisory council, which will be elected. The military governor will select his cabinet, which will be composed of the secretaries of the treasury, interior, agriculture, public instruction, the attorney-general, and an auditor. The capital will be located at Bacolor and the military governor will draw a salary of $6,000 in Mexican money.

It is required that voters will be able to read and write English, Spanish or Visayan, own $500 in realty or be the renters of $1,000 in realty, and be residents in their respective districts one year. The cabinet officers will perform the customary duties of their offices. It is believed the result of this experiment will have a great deal to do with forming the policy of the administration in regard to the government of the Philippines.

Changes Are Imminent.

New York, July 26.—A Washington special to an afternoon administration paper says: "It is said to be pretty definitely understood that there will be a change in the distribution of authority in the Philippines before the active campaign reopens, and that it is likely that Gen. Brooke will be relieved of his command in Cuba. It is thought that Gen. Wood will succeed Brooke in Cuba, but it is said not yet to have been settled who will relieve Otis in the Philippines of one branch of his authority."

AUTOMOBILE EXPLODES

Accident Occurs at Chalons, France,
Killing Driver and Injuring
Two Others.

Chalons, France, July 26.—[Special]—An automobile exploded here today, killing the driver and mangleing two of the occupants.

Risks of Telephone Speaking.

Beware of the unwashed telephone. It is a constant menace to the public health. A bacteriologist tells us that more cases of influenza have been coughed, spluttered and sneezed into the telephone, to be contracted by the next user of the instrument, than have proceeded from all other sources combined. Our informant visited several hotels, and also a number of public telephone exchanges. He carried with him some wire and clean cotton. He mounted the cotton on a piece of wire and rubbed it around the inside of the mouthpiece of the telephone receiver. These were each placed in a small bottle and carefully sealed. The first cotton ball examined revealed a multitude of the influenza bacilli, and it was so with the scrapings from all of the telephones. It is thus quite plain that the wide prevalence of the disease is partly due to the use of infected telephones. It is known that the germs are contained in the secretions, and nothing is more natural than that they should reach the receivers.—Science Sitings.

Origin of the Elevator.

The elevator originated in central Europe. The earliest mention of the elevator is made in a letter of Napoleon I. addressed to his wife, the Archduchess Maria Louisa. He writes to her that, when in Schoenbrunn, then the summer residence of the Austrian emperor, near Vienna, he used the "chaise volante" (flying chair) in that castle, which had been constructed for Empress Maria Theresa. It consisted of a small square room, sumptuously furnished with hangings of red silk and suspended by strong ropes with counter-weights, so that it could be pulled up or let down with great ease in a shaft built for the purpose about 1760.

Electric Bells Rang by the Sun.

Prof. Torvald Kohl of the Odder observatory, Denmark, reports that when the great sun spot of September last was crossing the solar meridian, magnificent auroral lights flashed across the heavens and the electric bells in the great telegraph station at Frederica rang without any visible cause. The telegraphic service in Denmark was disturbed for hours during the auroral display. Prof. Kohl thinks that the agency of the sun in producing the phenomena was evident. Similar exhibitions of "wireless telegraphy" between the sun and the earth have been noted in the past.

A Turning Headlight.

Among recent inventions is a locomotive headlight which, when the train is rounding a curve, turns in such a manner as to keep its projected shaft of light continually upon the rails, instead of pointing off to one side, as occurs with a stationary headlight. The motion of the headlight is controlled by means of an air cylinder, connected with the air-brake system of the train, and regulated by a valve in the cab. When the locomotive strikes a straight section of track the headlight automatically returns to its proper position.

Bryan Is to Be a Delegate.

Washington, July 26.—Bryan will be a delegate to the next democratic national convention. This statement is made by Congressman Clayton of Alabama, who represents his state upon the democratic national committee and who has just returned from the meeting of that committee in Chicago.

MILITIA HAS HAD SALUTARY EFFECT

QUIETS THE FRENZIED STRIKERS AT CLEVELAND.

Practically Full Quota of Cars Are Running on Almost All of the Big Consolidated Lines—Traffic is Light, as the People Evidently Fear Trouble.

Cleveland, July 26.—[Special]—The presence of the militia has had a salutary effect on the strike situation here. Practically a full quota of cars are running on almost all the big consolidated lines.

Fewer obstructions are found on the tracks than at any time since the strike began.

Cars were operated on a majority of the lines throughout the night. Traffic, however, was light, as the people evidently feared to ride on the big consolidated cars at night.

More troops are expected today. Mayor Farley this morning placed the military in control of the village south of Brooklyn.

A few constables in the village had begun searching non-union men for arms, and the city authorities decided to take the matter in their own hands.

Mayor Issues Proclamation.

Cleveland, July 26.—[Special]—The mayor has issued a proclamation warning all persons against assembling for the purpose of force or violence against persons or property.

Parents are also warned to keep their children indoors.

Missiles Thrown at Officer.

Cleveland, July 26.—[Special]—Adjutant-General Axline, who is now commanding all the troops here, boarded a car this morning and went to the most riotous district.

Before arriving there, his car was stoned, many of the missiles being aimed directly at him.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 26.—Cleveland has the appearance of being some centralization point for an invading army. Soldiers are to be seen everywhere. They are on the street cars and on the sidewalks. They are on guard at the car barns and keep out all visitors. Adj. Gen. Axline, in command of eight companies of national guardsmen, arrived in Cleveland yesterday afternoon. Other companies in the state are now in readiness for a call to Cleveland at a moment's notice. Adj. Gen. Axline will be in command of all the troops in the city. Capt. C. F. Zimmerman will be second in command.

Officers in command of the militia at South Brooklyn asked the sheriff of the county to place the village of South Brooklyn under martial law. It is at this point where a number of serious disturbances have occurred. The residents of the village called a mass-meeting, at which the marshal and other authorities were appealed to to arrest every man who appeared in the village with concealed firearms. The order was enforced, and as a consequence rioters have had everything their own way. It is thought the sheriff will comply with the demand for martial law.

The soldiers in various parts of the city are having a rough time of it. One company had difficulty in obtaining rations. The captain of the company went to a provision store for meat. He was told he would have to have cash. He secured cash and was told he could not have the meat under any circumstances. All these conditions, it is predicted, will hasten the establishment of martial law throughout the city.

Last night rioting broke out afresh. In South Brooklyn there was considerable trouble, as there was out Broadway and on Orange street. It was not of a serious nature, however. Word was received from Collinwood at 9:30 o'clock that a mob had assembled at a point near the village and was raising serious disturbances. Word was received from Newburg at the same time to the effect that cars had been obstructed and that a riot was in progress.

Word was received from Columbus that 10,000 rounds of ammunition had been shipped to Cleveland. The troops carry a supply with them. The ammunition shipped will be held in reserve.

Ralph Hawley, the conductor who shot and killed a young man on Orange street Monday, appeared in court to answer to a charge of murder. The Big Consolidated attorneys defended him. The case was continued until today. Conductor Seaton, who shot a teamster in the neck, was bound over to the Court of Common Pleas on the charge of shooting with intent to kill.

Strong Point for Dreyfus.

London, July 26.—The Paris correspondent of the Morning Post telegraphs: "I am able to vouch for the statement that Mr. Mazeau, president of the Court of Cassation, recently told President Loubet that in all the evidence submitted there was nothing to establish the guilt of Dreyfus. Mr. Mazeau has always been an anti-revisionist."

One of Boston's most highly cultivated coachmen has died, leaving an estate worth more than $50,000. That man knew his business.

CAPT. CHAS. TROY, OF RACINE, SUICIDES

WELL KNOWN FRENCHMAN IN THAT PART OF STATE.

Act Committed in the City Hall at 10 O'Clock Last Evening—Financial Trouble the Cause—Kenosha Girl Sues For Breach of Promise—State News.

Racine, Wis., July 26.—Capt. Charles Troy, one of the best known Frenchmen in this part of the state, shot and killed himself about 10:15 o'clock last evening, in the corridor of the city hall. Depression brought on by financial difficulties, is supposed to have led to the act, though the fact that Mr. Troy was ordinarily of the most sanguine temperament, makes his suicide the cause for the greatest surprise to his friends.

Shortly after 10 o'clock, Mr. Troy, who had been seen by several persons during the evening and had conversed rationally and cheerfully, entered the city hall at the side entrance leading to the police station. He stopped in the corridor, however, and removed his coat and hat. Then sitting in a chair, he deliberately drew a .32-calibre revolver and shot himself through the left temple.

The report was heard by the officers who came hurriedly to the scene, but an examination showed that Troy was dead.

Mr. Troy was born in France sixty-three years ago and he moved to this country while a young man.

Sues For Breach of Promise.

Kenosha, Wis., July 26.—Miss Barbara Olk has begun a breach of promise suit against John Jaeger. They were to have been married last Wednesday, but the young man disappeared a few days before the wedding. She sets a value of $5,000 on her blighted affections.

On July 14 Miss Olk and Jaeger were to have been married. Arrangements had been made, invitations issued and the license secured. The bride-elect had gone to a great expense to obtain her wedding apparel, but at the time set for the wedding it was learned that the proposed groom had suddenly left the city. The affair caused a great sensation and the suit filed by Miss Olk has again set the tongues of gossip astir. Young Jaeger had lived in this city for many years and is said to be possessor of considerable property.

Killed in a Runaway.

Port Washington, Wis., July 26.—An old settler and farmer, Carl B. Hoppe, living south of this city, was driving on Grand avenue from the court house with his wife, when part of the harness gave way and the horses ran away. The wagon ran against a dray standing on Grand avenue, and the force of the collision threw Hoppe twenty feet, while his wife sat in the wagon stunned by the shock. Bystanders carried Hoppe into a residence and called Dr. Couch, who found that Hoppe's neck had been dislocated, and that he was dead. Hoppe was 70 years of age.

La Crosse Man Burned.

La Crosse, Wis., July 26.—Frank G. Austin, superintendent of the Gas company, was seriously burned yesterday morning in a peculiar manner. He was assisting in disjoining a gas pipe in a trench where a larger pipe was being laid, when the heat used to melt the lead joints started a minute blaze on a bit of oakum. A big sheet of flame sprung up as the joints parted and Mr. Austin's face and arms were burned so that he had to be carried home and placed under the influence of narcotics. The results will not be permanent.

Is It a Case of Suicide?

Oconto, Wis., July 26.—What seems to be a case of suicide induced by mental aberration is reported from Underhill, in this county. A stranger by the name of James Marchant disappeared early this week and a searching party has found part of his clothes a short distance down the river from the village, in the pockets of which were cards and note-books which served as identification. The man had been noticed on the streets for a week and some thought he was crazy. It is thought that he had drowned himself and searching parties are on the lookout for the remains.

Enough of the Klondike

Green Bay, July 26.—Robert Dittmer returned to his home in Green Bay yesterday morning from the Klondike gold fields, where he had been for the past eighteen months. He brought home with him a number of gold nuggets and specimens. His trip from the Klondike to Green Bay cost over $300. He stopped at nearly all the large cities and was a month on the way. He left Dawson city on June 24. Mr. Dittmer says he has had plenty of Klondike for a while and will remain with his parents.

Heavy Storm Near Green Bay.

Green Bay, Wis., July 26.—What is supposed to have been a cloudburst, accompanied by a heavy wind, amounting almost to a cyclone, struck near the northern limits of Green Bay on the west side during the heavy thunder shower about 5 o'clock last evening. It lasted for about four minutes, and covered only a small area, yet in that time did considerable damage. A monster barn on the Duck Creek road owned by John Atkinson of this city, was almost completely demolished by the storm. John P. Jennings of this city, had a narrow escape by the sudden collapse of a barn. It is reported that fences were blown down and great quantities of grain and other crops in the field laid waste.

Organize the First Post.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 26.—The first post of the veterans of the Spanish-American war was organized here last night. It is known as Dawson Post, No. 1, and is named after Capt. Dawson, who died of fever at Anniston. The constitution of this new organization is remarkable in that it excludes from membership the Philippine soldiers who have enlisted in the last few months. It provides that no one shall be admitted to membership who did not enlist before the ratification of the treaty of peace with Spain.

Trip Around the World.

Kenosha, Wis., July 26.—Mrs. O. S. Newall and her two daughters are soon to start on a trip around the world. They expect to sail from Vancouver, B. C., on the Empress of Japan, Aug. 21, for Yokohama. They will go to Vancouver and thence to Yokohama. After visiting Japan and China they will pass through Siam to Bombay and two months will be spent in India, Greece and the country along the Danube will be visited in turn, and the circuit home will be completed across the continent by easy stages and then back to the United States.

Railway Laborers Strike.

Elroy, Wis., July 26.—Thirty-five tenders employed by Lang & Co., of Eau Claire on the mason work of the new roundhouse have struck for a 25-cent raise per day. They were receiving $1.75. A force working for Wilson Bros., on the double track south of the city, also struck for higher wages.

Meat Contracts For the State.

Madison, Wis., July 26.—The state board of control yesterday signed contracts for the meat supply for the state institutions for August. The contract was let to Libby, McNeal & Libbey, of Chicago, who bind themselves to supply domestic steers at $7.20.

Fleishermen's Omens.

When starting for the river, says a writer in London Field, if you have to turn back and get something that you have forgotten, you are sure to catch little or nothing that day. This is an article of Devon folklore, and I am inclined to think the west country folk right herein. The disappointment, the hurry and the bringing of wrong things always act prejudicially upon what ought to be the even and untroubled temper of a successful angler. He becomes hasty and rash, most often with ill results to his basket.

Queer Use of a Wedding Gift.

On the ground that she needed no outward symbol of love a Philadelphia young woman declined to receive an engagement ring from her fiancé, but was induced to accept the $100 which he intended to lay out on the token. They had been married six months before he knew what she had done with the money, and then he was chagrined to find that she had purchased a life membership in the Women's Suffrage society.

Growth of Belgium.

Within the last ninety-five years the population of Belgium has doubled itself, rising from 3,000,000 to 6,000,000. But the records of the larger cities make a still more interesting showing. Antwerp in a century has risen from 53,000 to 257,000, an increase of 383 per cent; Liege has advanced from 46,000 to 180,000; Ghent from 55,000 to 155,000, and Brussels from 56,000 to 187,000.

Canvasback Ducks Fed to Laborers.

Canvasback ducks were so numerous in the early days in Maryland that contractors were obliged to enter into contracts with their laborers that the latter should not be fed on canvasback duck more than three times a week. One man could easily shoot 100 ducks in a single morning in those days. Now the fowls cost $5 a pair. In London they are worth $25.

A French statistician declares that Switzerland produces annually more books than any other country in proportion to the number of inhabitants, namely, one to every 3,000. REGARDS THE FEUD SITUATION SERIOUS

STATE INSPECTOR LESTER VISITS CLAY COUNTY, KY.

He Does Not Think it Advisable to Hold a Special Term of Court as the Bringing Together of the Two Factions. Might Cause Another Outbreak.

Barbourville, Ky., July 26.—[Special]—State Inspector Lester, who has been in Clay county several days, investigating the feud situation for Governor Bradley, has arrived here.

He regards the situation as being serious, but says the excitement is dying out.

He does not think it would be advisable to hold a special term of court for the trial of the feudists, as the bringing of the feudists together might precipitate another outbreak.

The sending of soldiers into Clay county, he thinks, would not stop the killings.

FORECAST OF WEATHER

Chicago, July 26.—[Special]—Forecast for Wisconsin:
Fair tonight and Thursday.

DR. AND MRS. MILLS RETURN

Visited Several Canadian Cities, Also Ste. Anne de Beaupre.

Dr. and Mrs. James Mills have just returned from a trip to Canada, which was one of unusual enjoyment. They went as far as Quebec, returning by the way of the St. Lawrence river and great lakes, visiting Montreal, Toronto, Niagara Falls and other points of interest.

While away they visited the famous Ste. Anne de Beaupre. They also heard considerable of a remarkable miracle that is said to have been performed in that edifice. It appears that one Hector Poulin of Pittsfield, Indiana, who had been almost completely paralyzed for thirty years, arrived at the shrine, and was carried to the church, where he heard mass. After this Poulin was taken to the communion railing, and while praying fervently for the intercession of the blessed Virgin's mother, he felt a strange sensation pass over him, and for the first time in more than a quarter of a century, he sprang to his feet perfectly cured, and walked through the aisles, singing the praises of the bonne Ste. Anne.

ITALY IS STILL ANXIOUS.

Hamber's Government Taking a Serious View of the Lynchings.

Washington, July 26.—Count Vinci, the Italian charge d'affaires, was at the state department again Tuesday making anxious inquiries as to whether any report had been received from the governor of Louisiana in regard to the lynching of the five Italians at Tallulah, La. He was told that no report had come from the governor and was given renewed assurances that the state department was making every effort to obtain all the facts concerning the tragedy.

It is evident from the frequent visits of Count Vinci to the department and the earnestness of his inquiries that the Italian government has taken a serious view of the Tallulah incident. No claim for indemnity has been filed by Italy. The course of that government will depend largely, it is believed, on the determination of the facts in the claim that the men lynched had declared their intention of becoming citizens of the United States.

Admiral Kautz Accused.

Berlin, July 27.—The Frankfurter Zeitung publishes a letter, dated Sydney, June 18, stating that when Admiral Kautz was leaving he ordered the band of the Philadelphia to play British and American anthems, when the cruiser was passing the British warships, whose crews responded with cheers. He withheld a similar courtesy when passing the German warship, whereupon the crew of the latter, who were lined up ready to respond, fell back in silence.

Illinois Christian Encampment.

Eureka, Ill., July 26.—The attendance at the Illinois Christian Encampment Tuesday was good. J. Fred Jones of Carthage read his report, which shows the following work done the last year: Number of churches organized, 10; number reorganized, 4; number of Bible schools organized, 10; number of Endeavor societies, 10; number of conversions, 911; additions to the church otherwise, 710.

America Pensions Chinaman.

Washington, July 26.—Ah Yu of Shanghai, China, a landsman who enlisted in the navy in 1884 and was formerly attached to Dewey's flagship Olympia, was granted a pension of $30 a month for lung trouble. He has the distinction of being the first Chinese pensioner of this government.

Uncle Sam Buying Big Gun.

London, July 26.—At the launching of the British battleship Vengeance at Barrow-in-Furness Tuesday, Lieut. Dawson announced that Vickers' Sons & Maxim, limited, had received an order from the United States for a number of six-inch guns which were to be adopted for use by the American navy.

DUST ROT APPEARS IN SOUTHERN WIS.

THREATENS TO INJURE THE CORN CROP SOMEWHAT.

No Way of Stopping the Ravages—
Prof. Goff, of the State University,
Says the Only Way Is For Farmers to Cut Out Affected Parts.

The Madison correspondent of The Milwaukee Sentinel in speaking of a parasitic fungus which is making its appearance on the corn in southern Wisconsin and this season, on account of the climatic conditions, threatens to seriously injure the crop throughout the state, has the following to say:

"A parasitic fungus is making its appearance on corn in the counties in the lake belt including Walworth, Racine and Kenosha counties and it has also appeared in unusual quantities in the interior. A specimen of the fungus on a growing corn stalk was today shown to Prof. E. S. Goff, head of the horticultural department of the college of agriculture of the state university, and he pronounced the parasite to be Ustilago Maydis also known locally under the pseudonyms of smoky corn, dust-rot and corn-smut. The disease makes its appearance as a whitish glossy bulb just above or below a joint in the stalk. It grows very rapidly and takes on a decidedly repulsive appearance due to a slight slimy exudation. When mature the fungus forms a mass sometimes as large as a man's head and then breaks open disseminating a dark brown or a black looking powder, from which this disease gains its local names. But each grain of this powder although microscopic in size, is a complete seed or spore and will during the next season, produce a complete plant. The number of spores produced by a single 'smut-bulb' will number into the billions.

"The specimen that was examined by Prof. Goff today was sent up to Madison from a farm near Racine, where it is stated that the slimy looking exudations were pressed on nearly every hill of corn. The professor said that, up to the present time there was no satisfactory way of stopping the ravages of the parasite as he had discovered in the allied forms of Ustilago which affect oats and other grains; but that with the co-operation of the farmers throughout the state, it could be checked to some extent."

"Prof. Goff gave the following opinion on this pest: 'This is a fungus disease in which the spores of a parasitic fungus, Ustilago Maydis, gain entrance and may grow in the corn stalks at any time during the summer. The spores live all winter out of doors and are freely blown about by the wind. Those that happen to alight on a stalk of corn of which the epidermis of skin has been ruptured and so gain access to the juices of the plant, germinate and thus causes such a stalk to be affected with the disease. Sometimes, but more rarely, the spores gain entrance to the uninjured stalk above or below the joint where the cells are thin walled during rapid growth.'

"Since the spores live over winter and are practically omnipresent in corn growing districts, we cannot prevent this disease by the treatment so successful in combating smut on oats which is caused by an allied parasite, Ustilago Avena. The only beneficial treatment at present known is to remove all affected stalks before the smut balls are sufficiently matured to disseminate the spores and to burn or otherwise destroy them.

"In oat smut the spores of the fungus are unable to survive the winter in the open air, hence only those that chance to be sown with the seed can germinate. By treating the seed oats to hot water method or to some other fungicidal agencies we can wholly prevent this growth on the oat.

"Corn smut is always present more or less and is particularly so during the wet seasons and on corn that has been broken by the wind or other forces. It is an inside growing fungus and hence cannot be destroyed on the growing plant without destroying the corn itself.

"If we could secure the cooperation of all the farmers and carefully cut out the affected parts for a season or more this very destructive fungus might be checked in its ravages."

"It is only the spore-bearing hypha that appear outside of the cornstalk, so that the body of the parasite is really enclosed in the stalks. This body is nothing less than innumerable small thread like processes that permeate the whole stalk and sap the juices from the growing plant. A plant showing the presence of this fungus seldom or never bears a perfect ear of corn, and in a majority of cases bends over and withers before it reaches its best in the field. The parasite grows best in wet, hot weather, when the corn is young."

A Vigorous Shampoo

once every week with Seven
Sutherland Sisters'

Scalp Cleaner, when immediately followed with a thorough application of the Hair Grower, will make the hair soft, silky and luxuriant. Unusually hair means unhealthy hair. These preparations strengthen as well as cleanse and purify. They make growing to its fullest capacity, for then the cells are turgid and thin-walled, so that they can be easily penetrated by the submerged hypha, which suck all the vital juices from the cell and give nothing in return for what it receives. The most severe frosts fail to kill the spores, and even experimental freezing at low temperatures fails to have any effect on the germ of this pest."

KING CAUGHT SHARP SELLING BAD BILLS

POST OFFICE INSPECTOR GATHERS TIM MOORE IN.

Former Janesville Man Now Has Charge of the New York District
Secret Service—Supposed Victim
Turned on the Fakir and Held Him
Until Arrested.

Postoffice Inspector John D. King, formerly of this city, who was recently promoted, and now has charge of the New York district of the postal secret service, on Friday night caught Tim othy Moore red-handed in the act of fleeing a supposed victim by the most antiquated kind of a "green-goods" game. The arrest was made in Fishkill-on-the-Hudson, and the prisoner, after his arrest, acknowledged that one of his captors had seen him before under somewhat similar circumstances.

The attention of Inspector King was first attracted to Moore by a letter which he received from F. M. Snively of Cuba, Ill., inclosing a "green-goods circular, which had recently come to him through the mails. The instructions sent him by the green-goods" operator and telegraphed to "J. E. Brown, Rondout, N. Y.," the address mentioned in these instructions, as follows: "His present address is 234 Henry street." In response to this telegram Snively received by mail a letter inclosing a genuine $1 bill as a sample of the goods which the operator wanted to sell. The letter instructed Snively to telegraph to J. E. Hunt, Rondout, when he left his home, and also when he reached Buffalo. Further he was to go to Flannery's hotel, Fishkill, where his unknown correspondent would introduce himself by knocking on the door of his room, shaking hands with the left hand, and murmuring "234 Henry Street." Snively had no further communication with his correspondent, but he apprised Inspector King, who advised him to carry out the program outlined above. He assented, and on Friday evening he was met at the railroad station in Poughkeepsie by the two officers. Snively continued on to his destination, and the inspectors followed half an hour later.

While King and Jacobs were passing Flannery's Hotel, their attention was attracted by a call from Snively, who was standing at a third-story window and motioning vigorously to them to come to him. The officers ran up to Snively's room, where they found their ally standing, with a revolver in his hand, mounting guard over Moore, who sat in a chair. Snively told the officers that pursuant to the program laid down, Moore had come to his room, repeated the password and given the grip, and that negotiations for a superlatively excellent grade of green goods were begun at once. Snively was bargaining for $13,000 worth of the goods, for which he was to pay $1,000, when he saw the officers passing the hotel. Knowing that aid was at hand, he drew his revolver and made the surprised operator a prisoner, and held him until the inspectors relieved him.

Mr. King at once recognized Moore as a man whom he had arrested in Long Island City a year and a half ago for fleeing a "victim." At that time the man who was robbed made an outcry and Moore ran away, but was afterward caught by Inspector King. His associate, however, returned the money to the victim and the persecution was dropped.

Moore was arraigned before United States Commissioner Shields yesterday morning and was held for examination. He gave his age as sixty-two years.

SETTLEMENT IS PROBABLE.

Satisfactory Outcome of Alaskan Dispute Looked For.

SECRETARY HAY CONFIDENT.

Has Assured President McKinley That an Amicable Arrangement Will Surely Be Arrived at—Canada Will Secure a Port.

Washington, July 26.—A very gratifying change in the Alaska boundary situation has taken place within the last twenty-four hours, and the secretary of state was able to assure the president and the cabinet at their regular meeting Tuesday that he was very hopeful that an amicable arrangement with Great Britain would be made shortly.

While the state department officials will not go further than to say that a temporary arrangement is in sight, some of the cabinet officers obtained the impression from Secretary Hay's explanation that he was very hopeful of settling the entire difficulty on a permanent basis without recourse to arbitration.

The existing status of the negotiations centers around the proposition of the United States to grant Great Britain a so-called free port on the Lynn canal, where British vessels may take on and discharge cargoes without being subject to the customs laws of this government. The representatives of the two governments have not come down to details, however, and no statement can be made at this time as to what the possible outcome will be.

The negotiators have been consulting on the basis of permitting Great Britain to use one of the ports on the Lynn canal in consideration of the payment of a rental to the United States. The proposition to grant the British government harbor privileges was originally advanced by the United States, but was rejected at the time by Great Britain on account of the opposition of Canada.

The negotiations are being conducted in a more direct way than heretofore. Instead of pursuing the roundabout course of carrying on the negotiations between London, Washington and Ottawa, Secretary Hay and Mr. Tower of the British embassy here are endeavoring to come to an understanding which will be agreeable to the three parties concerned without being subjected to constant interruption through the reference of every point advanced to London and Ottawa.

It is not unlikely that within the next twenty-four hours some arrangement for a settlement will be made.

Canada Would Buy a Port.

Ottawa, Ont., July 26.—What is now suggested as a basis of settlement of the Alaskan boundary difficulty—namely, the cession of Canada of a free port on the Lynn canal—would probably prove acceptable to the Dominion government. This statement is made upon undoubted authority.

Condition of Crops.

Washington, July 26.—The crop bulletin of the agricultural department for the week ending July 24 indicates a much warmer temperature than usual, with less than the average rainfall in the lake regions. Rain is needed in southern Texas, Nebraska, the Dakotas, over portions of Illinois, Indiana, the middle Atlantic states and New England, but upon the whole the general conditions have been favorable in the states of the central valleys, lake region, and on the middle Atlantic coast. A marked improvement in the general condition of crops is reported from the middle Rocky mountain states, and seasonable weather conditions have prevailed on the Pacific coast.

Persons troubled with diarrhoea will be interested in the experience of Mr. W. M. Bush, clerk of Hotel Danmore, Providence, R. I. About two years ago a traveling salesman kindly gave me a small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Much to my surprise and delight its effects were immediate. Whenever I felt symptoms of the disease I would fortify myself against the attack with a few doses of this valuable remedy. The result has been very satisfactory and almost complete relief from the affliction." For sale by People's Drug Co., corner Main and Milwaukee streets.

Grain-O cleans up the stomach, aids digestion and strengthens the nerves. There is nothing but nourishment in Grain-O. It can't be otherwise and 25c per package.

RUDYARD KIPLING.

He Will Become Even Greater Than Balzac.

Dr. Carl Louis Perin, who enjoys the reputation of being the greatest exponent of the science of palmistry in the world, has been examining the imprints of Kipling's hand. He says that he was a personal friend of Kipling when the author was an unknown newspaper worker in India, and that he then predicted the career of fame which has since come to him. "I had no fear of a fatal termination of his illness when I heard of it," says Dr. Perin. "The lines in a man's hand don't lie, and in Kipling's hand there is no hint of an untimely death. Kipling will not die for forty or forty-five years. Long ago I said he would be the greatest novelist in the coming century, and that in his own field of literature there would be none to compare with him. I will go further than that. I will say that from the lines on his hand it is certain that Kipling, from being a second Balzac, will become a greater than he. Kipling is a man of splendid character. I speak not as his friend, but as the reader of his hand. The lines in Kipling's hand are as marked as his own character. Under no circumstances would he stoop to a mean action. He is high minded, noble, charitable and benevolent. He possesses great powers of concentration and a tireless energy. He is exceedingly modest in his estimate of himself, and cannot be spoiled by adulation. His ideas are grand beyond description, and his imagination is of an extraordinary character. In his hand the head line is the prominent one. Much of the fatalism of his writings can be explained when the extraordinary fate line in his hand is examined."

The Problem Solved.

Value of Kruger's Concessions.

London, July 26.—The latest news from the Cape shows that President Kruger's concessions approach more nearly to Sir Alfred Milner's demands than was first thought. It appears now that from 12,000 to 13,000 uitlanders will be enfranchised at once, as compared with Milner's estimate of 15,000 by his plan. According, also, to the new votes and civil status conferred on the uitlanders they will be able to return the whole municipal council of Johannesburg, while the Pretoria-Johannesburg jury will consist almost entirely of uitlanders.

TO TRY LOCAL STONE

Mayor Richardson proposes to give the local stone a fair test as a material for street building, and it is to be hoped that the experiment will be successful. The material used in the streets macadamized, up to this time, has been very poor indeed, but it is thought that the stone from the Barron quarry will be much better. Many people have favored the buying of granite for macadamizing, but its use is precluded by the fact that it will be four times as expensive as the local stone. In case the streets improved with the Barron quarry rock do not wear well, they can be made all right by the application of a top dressing of granite.

Macadam, for residence streets, cannot be improved upon at anywhere near the cost, and as the Barron quarry is so situated that it can be cheaply worked, it is expected that the people will get more for their money in the way of streets in the future. The old system was notoriously bad, but with the inauguration of the change it is expected that the work will be not only cheaper, but more permanent.

The plant recently bought was quite expensive, but if it enables the city to use cheap native material with good results, it will be money well spent, for the value of good streets cannot be overestimated.

Many men have met peculiar deaths, but the most peculiar of them all is told in a dispatch saying that George Wintrow, a rich farmer, was shot four miles north of Kokomo, Ind. Men frequently survive ordinary wounds, but when a person is shot in the region "four miles north of Kokomo, Ind.," the wound is always fatal.

We wish to call the attention of the Milwaukee people to the fact that the Carter H. Harrison, mayor of Chicago, who promises to help Milwaukee get the national democratic convention, is the same Carter H. Harrison, mayor of Chicago, who promised to attend the Janesville bicycle meeting, which fact may, or may not, be significant.

The president has approved General Otis' plan of campaign to be inaugurated after the rainy season ends. Otis' idea is to devote his own time to the duties of governor general, and place the military operations in the hands of some other officer—probably General Lawton.

General Anderson, in command of the Department of the Lakes, is talking considerable of late about what is needed in the Philippines. Evidently the brave general thinks he well knows where a good man can be secured to do the work that he so thoroughly understands.

Constant Reader—The faded pieces of bunting that still float in the air on South Main street, are reminders of the Fourth of July and not of the bicycle meeting. Please paste this statement on the outside of your hat so that everyone can read it.

A prisoner escaped from the jail at Shoals, Ind., by means of a jews harp. It is but justice to a much abused musical instrument, however, to say that the man escaped by picking a lock with the harp, and not by playing on it.

The Nineteenth regiment of volunteer infantry, consisting of 1,800 men, which recently sailed from San Francisco is the largest regiment in the world. It is the first regiment recruited on the new basis of 128 men to each company.

The sensational newspapers are now talking of a "war between the United States and England." Such talk is nonsense. A civil war would be quite as probable.

Snuff taking is the latest fad of the summer girl. This is not surprising. The summer girl, according to accounts, has always been "up to snuff," and it is not strange that she should get into the habit of using it.

General Wheeler has at last "caught a Tartar"—the transport Tartar, on which he sailed for Manila.

Of course a man doesn't like to "sleep on the checker board at the city lockup." The police, you know, are the kings, and it is always the sleeper's turn to move. Otherwise he is liable to be jumped.

How would it work if we got P. Griffin to "point the crooked finger" at Aguinaldo and thus settle the minor disturbance in the Philippines?

However, Col. Ingersoll didn't live long enough to see the bowie knife banished from Kentucky democratic politics.

Om Paul may resign and retire but his name will always live.

HE PAYS THE SOLDIERS.

The New Paymaster
General of the Army.

General Alfred E. Bates, the new paymaster general of the army, has been acting paymaster general since May, when he was summoned from London to assume the duties of General Carey, who was given leave of absence and who has since been retired. At the outbreak of the Spanish-American war he was made brigadier general of volunteers, but was sent to London as military attaché to the American embassy.

General Bates is a native of Michigan. He was graduated from West Point in 1865. For several years he was assigned to western posts and saw some campaigning among the Indians.

COLONEL ALFRED E. BATES.

In 1875 he was transferred to the pay department with the rank of major, and ever since then he has handled the money of Uncle Sam's fighting men.

He was ordered to Washington in May, 1882, and remained on duty here until July, 1886, after which he served four years at St. Paul, four years at New York city and about four years at San Francisco as chief paymaster of the department of California.

He reached the grade of lieutenant colonel in January, 1897, and became colonel and assistant postmaster general in March, 1899. General Bates is a man of wealth and social distinction and occupies a fine house at 1775 N street, N. W.

Good Reasons

Why heavy, square edge

Cushionet Turns

Are comfort giving, easy walking and longest wearing Shoes for women.

In Construction.

"Fitting up" the sole, manner of lasting, sewing and making, Cushionet Turns are entirely unlike any other Shoes, and we have secured exclusive sale for Janesville.

Results are Showing

That Cushionet Turns do not rip and that they will also outwear any other Shoes for walking on hard pavements.

The Reasons

For their not ripping are in the improved methods (patented) of channeling the sole and the way of sewing and protection of the stitch.

They Wear Longer

Because the very heavy soles of finest leather will not wear through quickly to the channel as in ordinary turn Shoes, and, being flexible, they do not grind out as wet Shoes are liable to do.

Cushionet Turns

Are easy Shoes for walking purposes. The elastic felt cushion which is stitched to a heavy canvas and is then covered with a kid sock lining forms a perfect treading surface and keeps the foot up and away from the pavement or hard walks. Felt, being a non-conductor of heat or cold, Cushionet Turns are constructed on hygienic principles. While the felt does not come in direct contact with the feet in these Shoes, they are cooler in summer and warmer in winter, because the heat or cold of the pavements does not penetrate this cushion.

We have all sizes and widths. Don't fail to see them.

FREERPORT DID THE BEST THEY COULD

VISITORS WERE UNMERCIFUL-
LY WHIPPED YESTERDAY.

Score Was 23 to 1—Worse Than 16 to 1—Just Think of it!—Farce May Be Overlooked by the Good Games of the Past—Statement by Management.

Only one. Just one forlorn little run that looked as lonesome and friendless as a second hand tooth brush. It was made in the last half of the final inning and was purely accidental. Freerport made it. It doesn't make much difference how many Janesville made, though as a mere detail it should be stated that 23 tallies were recorded for the home team and that they came as fast as the scorers could count them. Every man in the team was on his mettle and played superb ball and it is to be regretted that they were not pitted against a stronger team. Adkins started in to pitch, but when one inning had passed it was evident that he could just as well be eased for the game of Thursday and Palmer replaced him and nearly shut out the visitors.

It is unjust to blame the management of the home team for the farce of yesterday. They certainly are as much interested in securing strong teams to play here as anybody. Everybody knew that Freerport had a first class ball team and expected the same team to play here, with possibly two or three changes in it. Manager Kline talked with the Freerport manager over the telephone Monday night, and was assured that the team to be brought up here was fully as strong as the original club and that most of the old players would be here. Mr. Kline told him that if the club was at all weakened he would rather call the game off, but was informed that he need not worry on that score.

Details of the Game.

The following is the score:

JANESVILLE

Management Make a Statement

To the Patrons of the Base Ball Nine: We feel it but just to our patrons that we say we had every assurance from Freerport that the nine which came from that city yesterday was first-class in every way and were playing very fast ball. We regret more than anyone else the fiasco which was given and trust that our previous record for getting only A1 teams here will weigh with our friends and we assure them that it is our desire to get only the very best nines in this section of the country to play here and no effort will be spared to this end. We will endeavor to put up a game of ball tomorrow (Thursday) with the Chicago Unions which will more than make up for yesterday's farce. Mr. Adkins will pitch this game.

MANAGEMENT OF Y. M. C. A. BASE BALL NINE.

'NEATH THE SHADOW OF DEATH

Adene Maud, Mary Maryon. Impressive services were held in Trinity church this morning over the remains of Little Adene Maud Maryon, infant daughter of the Rev. F. L. and Mrs. Maryon. They were conducted by the Rev. Father Gillman, of Immanuel church, Racine, assisted by the Rev. A. H. Barrington, of Christ church, and consisted of the burial service proper and a full choral celebration of the holy communion. The music was rendered in a touching manner by the surpliced choir of the parish. A large number of friends were present and tearful eyes expressed sympathy which could not be spoken. At the conclusion of the services the little form was laid to rest in Oak Hill cemetery to await the general resurrection. The pall bearers were Arthur Adelen and Fay Eddington.

Lorette Marie Schmidtley. The funeral of the late Lorette Marie Schmidtley was held from the home at 2 o'clock and from St. Patrick's church at 2:30 o'clock. The interment was in Mount Olivet cemetery. The pall bearers were four uncles: Harry Schmidtley, Lewis Schmidtley, Willie Schmidtley and Frank Schmidtley.

Emily L. Alvis. Emily L. Alvis, widow of the late John Alvis, died at her home, corner Nellie and Ringgold streets, at 12 o'clock last night, aged eighty-six years. The interment will be at Edgemoor and notice of the funeral will be given later.

Will Take Part in Second Annual Handicap Century Run.

The second annual handicap century run of the Wisconsin Division Century Road Club of America, over the Milwaukee-Watertown course on Sunday, July 30th, will be of local interest, Orion Sutherland, of this city, having sent in his entry. The race is from Milwaukee to Watertown and return, and the distance is just one hundred miles. NORWEGIANS AT STOUGHTON

Pioneer Association Meet There Today—Many Visitors.

The Norwegian Pioneer association met at Shady Side park, Lake Kegonsa, near Stoughton, today. The associations of Chicago, Madison and Deerfield are there to take part in the festivities. Nearly 150 members from Chicago arrived last night, two special coaches being attached to the regular train. The excursionists were met by a reception committee headed by Mayor Roe and C. J. Melnas, president of the association, and escorted to carriages in waiting. Many were driven at once to the beautiful lake to spend the night, and the remainder were taken to the homes of citizens, where they will be entertained.

Among the delegates from Chicago are John Anderson, the venerable editor of The Skandinavien and Mr. Henderson, an old pioneer, who landed in Chicago in 1844. The program today is an interesting one. Many prominent speakers from abroad are present, and an address will be given by President Melnas and a basket picnic was held at noon.

It partook of the nature of a birthday party, each invited guest being furnished with a little bag in which the recipient was expected to put as many pennies as he or she was old and bring it as an offering to the church. For those who were unable to do this a small admission fee was charged. An excellent musical and literary program was enjoyed by all present and those who attended pronounced it a big success.

MILITIA ORDERED OUT TO QUELL MOB

TWO COMPANIES GO TO BAINFIELD, KY.

Troops to Protect Jail Against Attack—Threats Made to Lynch John Williams, a Negro—Also Swore They Would Blow Up Prison—Quiet at Present.

Savannah, Georgia, July 26.—[Special.]—Two companies of militia were ordered to Bainfield last night because of a mob that had killed six negroes during the past few days and had besieged the jail in an effort to secure another victim, John Williams. The mob had threatened to blow up the jail.

MILITIA at Bainbridge

Bainbridge, Ga., July 26.—[Special.]—Two companies of militia arrived here this morning to protect the jail against an attack from the mob, who have sworn they would lynch John Williams, a negro, who is held on a serious charge.

The presence of the militia quelled the excitement, but there may yet be a clash.

The sheriff declares that the story to the effect that two negroes had been lynched and scalped in the lower part of the county yesterday, is untrue, although he admits that Chas. Mack was lynched.

Albert Wright, a partner in the crime, is in jail at Montgomery, Ala., for safe keeping.

Atlanta, Ga., July 26.—Gov. Candler last night received this message from Sheriff Patterson of Decatur county, at Bainbridge, Ga.:

"Town in the hands of a mob. Send quick aid."

Gov. Candler at once ordered two companies of the state militia at Valdosta and Thomasville to proceed with all haste to Bainbridge.

Bainbridge, Ga., July 26.—The troops are wanted to protect the sheriff and the jail against the attack of a mob that is after John Williams, a negro who is charged with an attack on two white girls. A large crowd of country people are in town and swear they will have Williams if they have to dynamite the jail.

WILL TARRY IN COUNTY JAIL

An Afternoon at Mr. Peale's.

By CLINTON ROSS.

[Copyright, 1890, by Clinton Ross.]

"The example," said he. "Don't you see I must?"
"What is the example to me?"
"I know, poor girl. I know."
"And I hate your excellency."
She rushed past him, not sobbing then, and they heard the swish of her skirt in the hall, and all was still for a moment till Washington said:
"Well, Peale, I am ready."
"I hope your excellency will forgive me."

"Oh, she's very—yes, very pretty! I have no blame for you. She almost made me say what she wanted me to."
"You are very good," said the artist.
"Oh, don't be bothered," said the chief, smiling. "Do go on."

Yet Mr. Peale's cunning of eyes and hand seemed to have deserted him, and that hour's sitting was altogether unsatisfactory. When his sitter had gone, he decided to take a turn in the air to see if that might put this mood away.

An hour after Burton was asked by Miss Ronald if Mr. Peale were in. No. Might she not see the portrait again?
Burton did not hesitate and left her in the studio.

Did she wish to ask of that face how she might bring the original to her purpose? The figure stood firm, the hand on the cannon. The boy and the horse of the right, the line of soldiery of the background, the two officers at the left, but brought out the forcefulness of that one personality. So he dominated all in this war. He appeared to Eleanor Ronald of pitiless strength. What had led her here to look at it after that interview? She could not have told. She had said it was the wish to apologize to Mr. Peale. But, finding him out, she had asked to see the portrait. Now, looking at it, her heart was full of despairful passion. Everything had been tried for Captain Jermyn, and last of all she had made her appeal and had failed. The portrait seemed to take the place of the original. She hated it as fiercely as she did him, as much as she loved John Jermyn. One of those intense natures that give all, she could be everything that is exquisite in woman, could be honest and faithful to the last, and yet, when it was the peril of one she loved, she could be a mad woman, and now it was madness for the moment.

The afternoon sunshine fell over the figure, bringing out the details. Yes, its mocking strength appalled and shocked. Not knowing what she did, she seized a brush and made a dash over the face that suddenly became leering. Turning with a low cry she hurried out through the hall to the waiting coach, and in a tone trembling so that the man stared gave the order.

What had she done? she asked. She knew only too well, and she had hurt Mr. Peale. That calmly strong figure was as much out of reach as ever. Self loathing left her ill and gasping as the coach drew to her door. So, pale and listless, she reached her room. On the desk was a letter, and she started, noting the hand and the seal. Tearing it open she read:

DEAR NEEL—Got away. I will explain later. But I am unkind and in New York. I just have reported to Sir Henry and now hasten to appease you of the fact. Yrs, and JACK JERMYN.

A few moments after, all dead in her heart save a passion of self abasement, she ordered her coach. But one course was clear: She must go directly to Mr. Peale, whom she had hurt. Yet when started she knew she could not. She confessed she was weak. It was easier to go to the general, whom an hour before she had so hated. Yes, his excellency chanced to be in that moment, the orderly said at the door. Some minutes after he was free to this undeniably handsome young lady, who gazed at him with sad, staring eyes. He watched her, courteous and bowing.

"I am glad for you, Miss Ronald—and privately for myself—to tell you that Captain Jermyn is out of our jurisdiction through a most daring escape."
"I know," said she.
He stared, wondering why she expressed so little elation.

"He wrote you?"
"Yes, he has written me."
"I thought that might be the case"—he began.
"Don't speak to me kindly!" she broke out almost fiercely. "I can't bear it, for I am beneath contempt. Oh, sir, I have been mad!"
"I know," said he soothingly, "how you must have felt."

"And what did I do? I hated you. I could have killed you. I went back to Mr. Peale to apologize to him, and, not finding him, I went in—I don't know what prompted me—to look at the portrait. I wanted to study you, I think; to find how I might move you."
"Yes," said he. "I must have seemed hard."

"You did—horribly hard. Well, the sight of that face—your painted face—maddened me—and—and—I took a brush I found and daubed it."
He looked at her in astonishment.
"And you only hurt Mr. Peale."
"God forgive me, I only hurt Mr. Peale."

He walked up and down. This was worse than before Trenton. Yet she did not seem the least hysterical. His heart stirred, for she was very pretty and in distress.

"My dear young lady," he said soothingly, "don't feel so badly. Come with me to Mr. Peale. I will explain all and put the blame on myself."
"But you did not daub the portrait."
"Ah, yes, by proxy; I made you do it."

A smile broke through the tears that would come. "Oh, sir, if you would help me that much, I should go alone and tell him, but with you—I shall be braver."

"Then I am not so bad, after all?"
"Do not talk of being bad—after my example," she cried.
"But I know your provocation—your highly nervous state over Captain Jermyn. That explains the whole situation to me, and it must to Mr. Peale. Come, I will go now, and, despite matters, I will wait long enough tomorrow to give him another sitting. That ought to be enough after the number of times he has tried his hand on me."
Giving an order, he led her to her waiting coach, and, starting folk on the street saw the great man driving with Miss Ronald and guessed and gossiped.
"You are the greatest man in—in the world," she was saying.
"Next to Captain Jermyn," he said, smiling.
"Yes, after Captain Jermyn," she said. "You know that the easiest way to make a woman think you are a great man is to try to please her."
"I wish congress were a woman, then," said he.
"But, oh, your excellency, how can I face Mr. Peale?"
"Don't mind," said he. "We will—"

"Don't mind," said he. "We will—"

At the door Burton met them and stared suspiciously at the young lady. Of course he knew, she said to herself, and involuntarily she caught her escort's arm, and so, clinging to the general, she entered the studio.

Mr. Peale looked around from the canvases on the easel. If he started at first, his face fell into courteous indifference.
"Mr. Peale," she began, anticipating the general, "I did it."
Her voice, her bowed head, declared self abasement.

"What?" said he.
"Let me explain," the general interrupted. "You heard the conversation when Miss Ronald asked my favor for Captain Jermyn?"
"Yes."

"Returning here to apologize to you for having forced herself on my presence in your studio, she saw the picture, and, forgetting that it was not the original, daubed it."
She listened with beating heart, and heard Mr. Peale say easily:
"Why, the portrait is untouched! There it is."

She raised her head and saw in wonder the full length of the general.
"And then I dreamed it!" she cried.
"Yes, think you dreamed it, and don't be bothered, please," Mr. Peale went on. "I know how you were wrought up about Captain Jermyn. I understood perfectly."
"I did it, then?" she asked abjectedly.

"Oh, it will only make me but a little trouble!"
"I am so, so sorry, and yet it is there untouched," she added, staring at the portrait.
"I don't see what you mean, Peale?" the general himself said. "You have fixed it up again?"

"No," said Mr. Peale, looking at her uneasily. "The fact is, I had replaced the original on the easel by a copy I was making for Don Juan Miralles."
"You dear, dear Mr. Peale!" she cried, and, stepping up to him, to his embarrassed delight she kissed him, which Captain Jermyn forgave when, long after, she confessed it.

And thus it.
"Do you approve of educational schools?" asked the father of three lively boys.
"Oh, they have their advantages and their disadvantages, of course," said the person to whom he appealed. "I judge from your course with Harold that you are in favor of the system. Professor James tells me he is a very bright scholar."

"Perhaps so," said the father doubtfully. "But I had a little conversation with Harold yesterday that stays in my mind. I said pleasantly to him, 'Harold, somebody told me the other day that the girls and boys at Codman hall were better known for caricatures and puns than for scholarship.'"
"Oh," said Harold, "that all comes of the story that's leaked out about the sketch made on the blackboard by Ann Drew; Ann drew Andrew Andrews and ruses it!"—Youth's Companion.

Morgan's Riflemen.
The rifle corps which Morgan formed from marksmen from the whole Revolutionary army is usually referred to as "Morgan's Virginians," but, as a matter of fact, two-thirds of them were Pennsylvanians, including a considerable number of Pennsylvania Germans. One of the latter, a Mr. Lark, who was with Morgan from the beginning to the end of the war, was the last survivor of the corps. Once, when Morgan was asked which race of those composing the American armies made the best soldiers, he replied: "As for the fighting part of the matter, the men of all races are pretty much alike; they fight as much as they find necessary, and no more. But, sir, for the general essential in the composition of a good soldier, give me the 'Dutchman'—he starves well."—Harper's Magazine.

Side Lights on History.
The mole connecting the mainland with the island on which that mighty city Tyre had stood invulnerable for centuries was at last complete, and Alexander the Great was overseeing in person the work of the great battering rams that had been placed in position and were thundering against the walls of the beleaguered city.

"Your majesty," said a funny, respectfully touching his pasteboard helmet, "dinner is served in the royal tent."
"I shall eat no dinner," replied Alexander, with a look of noble resolve on his youthful but majestic face, "till I have punctured the enemy's Trench!"

Out of this incident grew the custom of alluding to Tyre as the Windy City, a title that has come down with the ages.—Chicago Tribune.

He was also subject to rheumatism in his joints and to spells of dizziness and nervousness. He could not sleep or rest on account of his troubles. He was treated by doctors and took different kinds of kidney remedies, but only temporary relief followed, until he heard of Morrow's Kid-ne-oids and used them according to directions. Since using Kid-ne-oids he has not complained of backache or any of his former troubles, he sleeps well and looks so much better."

PICTURES ALL IN BLACK

The Fad For Silhouette Portraits Is Being Revived.

By Annette Crawford.

Society is ever on the alert for some new form of diversion and entertainment, and in seeking for the new it is sometimes led to turn back and revive the old.

There is now a revival of the art of silhouette cutting, which was so much in vogue in the old days before the sun turned portrait painter, and it promises to speedily become the popular fad. The artist of the scissors is likely to be quite as much in evidence as the artist of the kodak has heretofore been, and the victims of the "black art" will doubtless become as numerous as have been those of the snap shot.

We may now look to see silhouette parties become the fashion, in which bright young women, with scissors and paper, will compete for prizes, while patient young men pose as the subjects. There will doubtless be no end of silhouette exhibitions.

It is not a bad sort of fad. There are in it the possibilities of much wholesome and intelligent entertainment as well as the means of improving the artistic taste and accomplishments of its devotees.

While silhouetting is one of the oldest forms of picture making, there are always about it a freshness and charm. Exhibits of this class of work are always novel and interesting. The origin of the art is lost in antiquity, though it has been designated by the name silhouette only since 1750.

At that time the name was applied to profile portraits in black or any uniform tint, being so called after Etienne de Silhouette, French minister of finance during the closing years of the reign of Louis XV, whose rigid economy, intended to avert national bankruptcy, caused his name to be applied to things cheap.

Following out the idea of mock economy, folks gave up sitting to the fashionable portrait painters and had likenesses taken by "a la Silhouette." The political nickname has clung to the profile portraits with which the nobles of King Louis' court tried to belittle his minister.

Despite the ridicule attached to the name, silhouettes became quite popular throughout France, and there are many fine collections of these simple but often artistic old portraits still extant.

A few years before the beginning of the war of the Revolution silhouettes became very popular in this country, and this form of portraits were seen everywhere. Some of these have been preserved and are valuable relics of that period. In those days we were very kindly disposed toward the French and adopted with alacrity French customs and fads, and no doubt the penchant for silhouettes came from our early love of France.

The greatest genius of the "black art in portraiture" was doubtless Etienne Edouart, a Frenchman who had served as a soldier under Napoleon and who became famous as a portraitist in England as well as in France. One day when in England he was shown some silhouettes. His friends, who proudly exhibited these pictures of themselves, were vexed with the scorn he expressed of them. Edouart took a pair of scissors and vowed that he could do better, and the result proved that he could. This was the beginning of his career as a profile artist. He possessed the true instinct of likeness, and his silhouettes, elaborate, minute and full of character, rise almost to the dignity of fine art.

Among the silhouettists who have attained celebrity was Mrs. Leigh Hunt, wife of the English poet, essayist and editor, who frequently cut in profile the portraits of her husband's most intimate friends—Byron, Moore, Lamb, Shelley and Keats. Some of these portraits are still preserved.

The art of silhouette cutting is not extremely difficult to acquire, though it takes patience and some skill. The primitive process was to trace the outline of the subject from a shadow cast by a candle on a sheet of white paper. This shadow outline is then reduced or enlarged by the use of a pantograph to any size the operator desires. From the model thus acquired the silhouette is cut from black paper or paper of any uniform dark tint and mounted on white cardboard or cut from white paper and placed on a black surface. The true silhouettist, however, does not resort to these devices, but depends only on his artistic eye and deft fingers.

REMARKABLE

Operation Restored an Idiotic Child to Full Mental Powers.

In May, 1890, one of the most remarkable surgical operations on record was performed by Dr. Lavelange in the Children's Hospital at Paris. It was the case of an idiotic child. Its head had stopped growing since it was four years of age, and was only one-third the normal size. Believing that the idiosyncrasy was due to compression of the brain, the doctor divided the skull longitudinally and kept the edges of the bone from uniting. Fresh deposits of bone took place, and the skull gradually expanded to almost its proper size. Then the intellectual faculties, which had hitherto been those of an infant, grew stronger and stronger every day, till at last the child was as sound and healthy as any other in France. Some of the most remarkable surgical operations have been performed in connection with the brain, which is now so accurately mapped out that a surgeon can tell exactly where the seat of mischief in the brain lies. Should there be a tumor on the brain, its exact situation can be located, and then the skull is opened and the morbid growth removed. Recently a society beauty, whose complexion was fading, had the outer skin of her face removed by a long and most delicate process, and now boasts the complexion of a girl of seventeen.
